

Information, Advice and Guidance (IAG)

Statement of Service

About our IAG service:

CableCom Training Ltd is a private training provider based in Stockton-On-Tees. It was established in 2000, and provides training in specialist areas in Telecoms, Electronic Security Systems, Transportation, Ports & Shipping, and Business Support & Management. Our Mission statement is to provide high quality nationally accredited vocational training, which will lead to employment or job enhancement. Our IAG service is designed to help you make an informed decision if you want to find out how to improve your job prospects or skills, get a qualification or just make the most out of your current job.

What we offer:

- A confidential, impartial and objective information and advice service, covering learning opportunities and the skills and qualifications needed for employment or career progression.
- Written information on all courses and opportunities
- Our website 'Broswealoud' service which provides online reading support. 'Browesaloud' works by reading website content aloud and assists learners who may suffer from dyslexia, Literacy difficulties, English as a second language (ESL) and those with mild visual impairments
- Support during your studies to assist your learning, personal development and career
- Advice and services to enable you to study effectively if you have a disability or additional requirement
- Telephone/internet services providing information and advice
- A signposting and referral service to other providers and sources of information (if we are unable to offer the information or advice you require)
- Specialist facilities for those with special needs, where appropriate
- Information and Advice regarding Government funding for learning programmes and eligibility criteria where appropriate.
- Impartial and objective information and advice service on full cost learning programmes

What you can expect from us:

- We will be professional and knowledgeable. All our staff hold the appropriate teaching/vocational qualifications in order to deliver training
- We are happy to answer your enquiry by telephone or e-mail or to offer you an individual appointment
- We will tailor our services to your needs

- If we are unable to respond to your request immediately, a response to a written correspondence will normally be sent within 5 days
- Where a response is required to a telephone call we will reply within 2 days
- We will acknowledge or reply to your e-mails within 3 days

What do we expect from you?

- As much relevant information as you can give us so we can answer your enquiry fully
- Prompt contact if you have any questions or concerns about your studies
- To attend all interviews, which have been arranged with our IAG staff on time
- Let us know if you need to cancel or re-schedule
- To be honest and open with us, and work towards meeting your agreed aims
- To treat those working in the IAG team with respect

Confidentiality:

In order to provide the best possible service we keep a record of your details, your academic record and your contacts with us.

This record can only be accessed by authorized staff or representatives who need to see this information as part of their work.
